According to Romea.cz, 200 people amassed in Varnsdorf's Benešov Square to demonstrate against the presence of Roma in the town. The demonstration was convened under the name of "law and order" to protest alleged Roma criminality and aggression, triggered by a New Year's attack allegedly perpetrated by a group of Roma against a non-Romani family as well as by a recent speech by the Vice-Mayor which addressed the criminality of some of the anti-Roma demonstrators themselves. At the demonstration, which remained without violent incident, the government was criticized by the demonstrators for not resolving the security situation of the region. The flag of the ultra-right Workers' Social Justice Party (Dělnická strana sociální spravedlnosti or DSSS) was carried by demonstrators. Another prominent anti-Roma demonstrator, who had tried to reserve the square for his demonstration at the same time and had been refused by the town, tried to incite the Roma of the town by posting on Facebook, under an alias, calls to demonstrate against "white racism". The DSSS also made reference to this during the demonstration. The Czech Press Agency later reported that a 22-year-old woman and two young men (one 19-year-old and one under 18 years of age, according to the police spokesperson) verbally assaulted three Roma following the demonstration in Varnsdorf's Benešov Square. All three were arrested and one of the men has been jailed. According to the police spokesperson, one of the men had patches resembling Nazi symbols on his clothes. The incident is being investigated, but felony charges of defamation of individuals due to their membership in an ethnic, national, racial or other group, as well as charges of rioting are being considered. If the suspects are convicted for such charges, they could face a sentence of up to two years in prison.

41. Czech expert witness on extremism becomes next target of ultra-right extremists

A former colleague of the Czech expert witness who resigned due to pressure from ultra-right extremists has become the next target of these extremists. A photograph of his business card, including his phone number and address, has been posted on extremist websites and his work has been parodied. The expert witness has decided not to respond to the provocation.

40. Romani activist threatened
Location:	Plzeň	Date:	10 January 2012
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_3068
A Romani activist living in the Přední Skvrňany neighborhood of Plzeň has been targeted with racial slurs and e-mail threats over the last six months, including the spray-painting of a red swastika on the front door of his apartment in January 2012. He has filed criminal charges and submitted the e-mails to the police, as he fears the physical violence threatened. The writer of the e-mails has since indicated that he is aware of the involvement of the police. The activist is the founder of the "Amare čhave" organization, which supports the social integration of Romani people, for example, through sports events for children.

39. Romani woman murdered by three young men

Location:	Prague	Date:	Exact date unknown. The victim died before 5 Jan 2012.

Three young men have confessed to their involvement in the murder of a Romani woman in the Prague 3 district of Jarov. According to Romea.cz, the woman was kicked and punched in the head before being stabbed. One of the young men has been remanded into custody on the charge of committing murder and faces, if convicted, a prison sentence of between 15 and 20 years, or life. The other two have been charged with felony attempted grievous bodily harm and rioting, and would face a prison sentence of up to 10 years, if convicted. According to local residents, the young men are right-wing extremist sympathizers who have regularly attacked homeless people and locals in the past.

38. Two Romani men shot, one fatally
Location:	Tanvald	Date:	2 January 2012
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_3048 http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_3061 http://www.romea.cz/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_11518 http://tn.nova.cz/zpravy/cernakronika/exkluzivne-postreleny-rom-promluvilo-o-smrti-bratra.html
Two Romani brothers were shot in Tanvald approximately 200 metres from their home on 1 January 2012 while reportedly en route to wishing their grandmother a happy new year. The 22-year old man died from his injuries and the 24-year old man suffered serious injuries. A 63-year old man was arrested and questioned by the police but was later released without being charged. According to Regional State Prosecutor Bradáčová it remains unclear whether the shooting was a crime or an act of self-defence. Speculation as to an initial attack on the 63-year-old by the Romani men has been reported by TV Nova the media. Bradáčová has repeatedly asserted her certainty that the incident was not racially motivated. However, Czech-Romani Civic Association chair Gorol maintains that the incident was an “execution” of the Roma, as the men were allegedly unarmed. The shooter is said to have been the victim of a previous attack, allegedly perpetrated by some Romani men, some time ago; the 1 January incident may have been a revenge killing involving a case of mistaken identity. The survivor of the attack has since gone into hiding out of fear of another attack. He refutes the media’s portrayal of the incident, maintaining that he and his brother were attacked without instigation. His injuries reportedly confirm that the shooter was standing over him when he shot. TV Nova, on the other hand, has been reporting the incident according to the suspected shooter’s account, even broadcasting a computer graphic “reconstruction” of the event in which the two victims attack the suspect from behind, kick him on the ground, and he shoots in self-defence. During the funeral of the gunshot victim on 7 January there were two attempted disruptions, one by an ethnic Czech who shouted “The bastard deserved it” while among the crowd of mourners, and one by a small group of neo-Nazis who were kept by police from approaching the public commemoration held at the scene of the shooting after the burial.

37. Police claim schizophrenic Romani man died of natural causes following conflict with police officers
Location:	Děčín	Date:	7 December 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_3003 http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_3006
A Romani man who suffered from schizophrenia died following a police intervention called for by paramedics unable to calm him down from a fit of aggression. The incident occurred on Saturday 26 November. The man was then transported to the hospital. On Thursday, 1 December, the hospital informed the family that their 26-year-old son had died. According to his relatives, the police, who had made inappropriate comments regarding the man's skin colour, used force and a stun gun against the man even after he had ceased resisting. The police spokesman, however, claimed that according to the department's internal monitoring mechanism, the police did not commit any errors in their handling of the case. The Czech Police Inspectorate, on the other hand, reported that it had not yet investigated the case. The autopsy and toxicology report is expected to shed light on the incident and to be ready within a month. The mother of the deceased is considering delaying burial and requesting an independent autopsy irrespective of the cost.

36. Neo-Nazis attack woman while shouting racist slogans
Location:	Vimperk	Date:	28 November 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2983 http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2997
According to the Czech Press Agency, a dark-skinned singer was attacked by a group of racist promoters of the ultra-right extremist Workers' Social Justice Party (Dělnická strana sociální spravedlnost, DSSS), who shouted racist slogans, pulled her hair and spit at her. The incident, which has been confirmed by the Vimperk Municipal Police, occurred at a restaurant following a DSSS rally in Vimperk. The singer alleges that two off-duty police officers at the restaurant did not come to her aid and that the officers who did arrive to address the incident took no action because the assailants were not locals. According to the chief constable of the Vimperk Municipal Police and as reported by news server Deník.cz, several people were detained and two have been charged. Following the incident in the restaurant, the group of racist promoters continued to U Lázní street where local Roma live, chanting anti-Romani slogans.

35. Romani man files complaint against officer of the Police Special Forces Unit

Location: Šluknov Date: 5 November 2011

Source: http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2935

A Romani man filed a complaint against the behaviour of a police officer in Šluknov. The case has been transferred to Prague to the Regional Police Directorate. According to the Romani man, while standing on his own property he was approached by one police officer and then attacked by another, who grabbed him from behind with one hand on his throat and pushed him to the wall, yelling. Even after letting him go the police officer acted aggressively, accompanying the Romani man to his car to retrieve his documents and then ordering him to remove everything from the car and searching it. The police officer used racist language.

34. Violence between ethnic Czechs and Romani people
Location:	Ústí nad Labem	Date:	16 October 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2891 http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2893
The investigation into an attack committed against two ethnic Czechs by Romani people has confirmed that the two ethnic Czechs had attacked other Romani people prior to the incident in question, according to the Vice-Mayor of the Neštémice quarter of Ústí nad Labem as reported by the regional daily Ústecký deník. Police spokesperson Veronika Hyšplerová, as reported by news server Romea.cz, also confirmed those were the results of the investigation. A Romani man and his grandson have filed criminal charges regarding the attack by the two ethnic Czechs. News server Deník.cz reported that one of the ethnic Czechs was armed with a knife and a machete. The investigation into the Romani attack on the two ethnic Czechs is still ongoing, as the incident has been reported on differently by different sources. According to news server Romea.cz, a witness reported having seen a Romani woman, man and their son running from a man with a knife who was threatening to kill them. The Romani family was able to get inside before being injured. Shortly thereafter, a brawl ensued between the men with the knife and a group of Romani people who had come to the attacked family's aid. TV Nova, however, reported that, according to the hospitalized ethnic Czech man, the Romani people had attacked unprovoked.

33. 400 ethnic Czechs march through Varnsdorf in attempted pogrom on Romani residents

Location:	Varnsdorf	Date:	17 September 2011

At 2 PM on 17 September, an anti-Romani rally was held on the Varnsdorf town square, followed by a march on Romani residences supported by extremists from the Workers' Social Justice Party (DSSS). Half an hour before the announced start time of the demonstration, police detained 14 men with tattoos associated with football hooligans on suspicion of various misdemeanours. Police reported some were carrying knives.

Once the rally was over, 400 people marched toward the Romani-occupied Sport residential hotel. They were led by approximately 50 neo-Nazis shouting nationalist and xenophobic slogans. The DSSS vice-chair was among them. A police barricade halted the marchers at the request of the town leadership, which called for it to be dispersed for inciting racial hatred. Demonstrators shouted "You're protecting the Gypsies" at the police. An alleged acolyte of the Catholic Church, who would not identify himself, then proposed the march transform itself into a religious assembly. Police said they would permit such an assembly to proceed toward the Romani residence on the condition that no one would yell anti-Roma or political slogans.

The demonstrators did not take the police up on their offer, but chose to head for yet another building housing Romani tenants, the "Červený kostel" residential hotel, where they stood outside in the street whistling loudly for almost an hour before eventually dispersing.

32. Three anti-Romani demonstrations in one day, clashes with police, charges filed against five people
Location:	Nový Bor / Rumburk/ Varnsdorf	Date:	10 September 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2809 http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2803 http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2801
On Saturday, 10 September three separate anti-Romani demonstrations were held by the ultra-nationalist Workers' Social Justice Party in the towns of Nový Bor, Rumburk, and Varnsdorf. In Varnsdorf, the second location in the series, the demonstration transformed itself into an unannounced march led by hardcore neo-Nazis on residential hotels occupied by Romani tenants. When thwarted by police from reaching their destination, demonstrators threw bottles and rocks. Police used stun grenades, teargas and water cannon to disperse the mob. Six people were injured, three of them police officers, and 41 people were detained at police stations. The Czech Police subsequently charged five people: three with assaulting a police officer and two with promoting a banned movement because they were wearing banned symbols on their clothing. Two of the assailants face up to six years in prison for assault with a weapon. A 35-year-old ethnic Czech from Hradec Králové shot at police officers twice with a gas-fired pistol at a highway checkpoint near Dolní Podluží (no one was injured). Detectives filed the same charges against a 25-year old man who threw rocks at police officers and at their cars in Varnsdorf; he is also being charged with vandalism. A 47-year-old woman also faces four years in prison for assaulting an official. The other two men, aged 31 and 33, were charged with promoting banned movements and face up to three years in prison for wearing t-shirts about banned topics. Another two similar charges may be filed regarding persons attending the Nový Bor demonstration that same day.

31. Mob of ethnic Czechs marches against Roma in Varnsdorf
Location:	Varnsdorf	Date:	3 September 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2788
A mob of several hundred ethnic Czechs, including both members of the neo-Nazi "Free Youth" (Svobodná mládež) movement and other people from the town, marched through Varnsdorf trying to attack Romani residents of the Sport residential hotel and shouting racist abuse. According to Romea.cz, there were even some calls for Romani people to be sent to gas chambers. Although the situation was out of control between 18:00 and 19:00 when the mob advanced on the hotel, it was eventually stopped by police vans. The protests by approximately 250 people had been called in response to the allegedly increasing number of crimes committed by Romani people in the Šluknov foothills. The protest follows a previous demonstration by 500 people who also tried to reach the hotel but were stopped by the police.

30. Romani family forced to flee Rumburk

Location:	Rumburk (Děčín district)	Date:	27 August 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2753
Following a rally and violent acts of a mob towards the local Roma community, a Romani family fled Rumburk after their neighbours threatened to kill them. Before fleeing, the family had contacted both the police and the Rumburk town hall, neither of which offered them help. The mother of the family is an ethnic Czech and her husband is Romani. According to the family, they are not the only Roma to have been forced to flee Rumburk.

29. Ethnic Czechs march on Roma housing in Rumburk

Location: Rumburk (Děčín district) Date: 26 August 2011

Source: http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2746

Following a rally in which the commission of violence against the Roma was called for, a mob of approximately 500 people marched through Rumburk trying to provoke Romani residents. By the end of the march, ethnic Czechs had thrown tree branches and stones and broken down a fence outside of a building in which the Roma were staying.

28. Ethnic Czechs brutally attack Romani man

Location: Rumburk (Děčín district) Date: 26 August 2011

Source: http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2745

Four ethnic Czechs brutally attacked a Romani man with baseball bats in front of his pregnant girlfriend, according to the man. The attack came one day following a brawl in Rumburk between 18 Romani people and six ethnic Czechs. The Romani man had had nothing to do with that brawl and, according to local Roma, the assailants were not neo-Nazis.

27. Investigation into death of young Romani boy
Location:	Bruntál	Date:	19 August 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2714
A 5-year-old Romani boy died when he was run over by a delivery van in Bruntál. It is unclear as to whether the accident was intentional, as claimed by some Romani residents as well as some witnesses discussing the incident online. Others claim that the boy jumped in front of the van such that the driver was unable to prevent the accident. The incident is being investigated by a team including forensic medicine and highway traffic experts.

26. Molotov cocktail thrown at a Romani house
Location:	Krty (Rakovník district)	Date:	10 August 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2683 http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2691
A Molotov cocktail was thrown into a Romani house on railway property in Krty. One man suffered second-degree burns as a result of the attack. According to local media reports, the Molotov cocktail landed in the bedroom where two young parents and their 1-year-old child were sleeping. The flaming object landed just a few centimetres from the child's bed. At the time of the attack, 12 people were in the house. Fire fighters from Jesenice, Kněževy, and Rakovník were on the scene immediately, as was a railway fire fighting unit from Plzeň. The father of the family was taken to the hospital in Rakovník for treatment of second-degree burns on his leg. About CZK 1,000 worth of damage was caused, but the building, which is worth CZK 300 000, was saved. Krty currently has only 107 inhabitants, and according to officials there is no record of any manifestations of racial intolerance in the settlement. The local edition of daily Deník.cz reports that locals have condemned the crime. Police say the attack could have been a mistake, as the house was apparently occupied by someone else until just recently.

25. Bar brawl between Romani and non-Romani guests
Location:	Nový Bor	Date:	9 August 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2680
A brawl occurred in a bar in Nový Bor between non-Romani guests and the relatives of three Romani boys between the ages of 15 and 17, who had been playing video poker there. The brawl began after the barmaid refused to cash the Romani boys' winnings and requested their IDs, which she had allegedly disregarded on a previous occasion. The boys swore at her and several non-Romani guests physically attacked the boys. The Romani boys fled and returned with their relatives, attacking the non-Romani guests with machetes and truncheons. Two Romani people have been arrested and one faces charges of committing grievous bodily harm, which carries of a prison sentence of between 5 and 12 years.

24. Racists attacked a Roma home to kill the family members
Location:	Nýrsko (Klatovy district)	Date:	30 July 2011
Source:	http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2668 http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_3010
Two racists broke into a Roma-occupied home and almost killed a Romani man by beating him with a wooden bat and kicking him. According to victims' testimony, around 5 PM on 30 July, the children of the family came running into the house shouting that they were being chased by skinheads. Immediately after the warning of the children, the doorbell rang. A family member looked through the window and saw a man with a shaved head waving a baseball bat at her from the street. She quickly shut the window, but the attackers started pounding on the door. When a male member of the family opened the door, he was punched. Then the attackers grabbed and dragged him about 50 metres. The perpetrators wrapped a sweatshirt around his neck and pulled it tighter and tighter. The 29-year-old Romani man lost consciousness completely. Fortunately, other members of the family ran to his aid and after some serious struggle, both of the assailants, who are 18 and 23 years old, fled, shouting that the Romani people were "black swine" and that they had come to kill them. The daily Právo reported that they left town in a vehicle but had an accident on the road. The driver was unable to control the vehicle, running into a low concrete barrier after swerving out of the lane. It later turned out his blood alcohol level was above the legal level. One of the perpetrators had been hit with the baseball bat during the brawl and required medical treatment, as did the victim of the strangling. In December, police filed charges against a total of seven people – two perpetrators face charges of committing racially motivated violence and driving under the influence of alcohol, while the five Romani family members, who were defending themselves in their own home, have been charged with rioting. The racially motivated assailants face up to three years in prison, while their five Romani victims face up to two years in prison. The family has reportedly not left their home since the incident and has asked their non-Romani neighbours to do their shopping for them.

23. Racially motivated arson attack on Romani home
Location:	Býchory (Central Bohemian Region Region)	Date:	11 July 2011
Source:	Romea.cz, Prague Daily Monitor, http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2594, http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2600, http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_2605 http://www.romea.cz/english/index.php?id=detail&detail=2007_3045
In the town of Býchory, 60 kilometres east of Prague, perpetrators threw a flaming torch into a Romani home on 11 July. According to police sources, at 12:30 AM, a group of people walked around the Romani home shouting racist slogans. One of them then threw a flaming torch into the house. The family put out the fire themselves. Five people, including three small children, live in the targeted home and another two people were visiting at the time of the attack. None of the victims suffered physical injury but the attack caused some damage to the house. Media reported that the victims' neighbour saw a group of about seven youngsters throw the torch into the Romani home. "They walked through the village holding lit torches and giving the Nazi salute. They were yelling that they don't want any of them (the Gypsies) here," the neighbour said. Four people in their early 20s were arrested and racial motivation for the attack was investigated. Initially, they all faced charges of complicity in the crime of attempted grievous bodily harm, with potential prison sentences of up to 12 years. The charges were initially reduced for three of the perpetrators, and all of the defendants were released from custody.		Police completed their investigation of the incident in December and said they would press charges against all four for conspiring and attempting the felony crimes of racially motivated assault against members of a particular group and grievous bodily harm. They face prison sentences of between three and 12 years for conspiring to commit the crime and committing it together. The longest sentence may be handed down to the youngest member of the group, who is 21 years old.  The family of Milan Demeter and Eva Douchová fled their home after the attack. Photo Credit: Romea.cz

22. Pod Pecníkem street apartment attacked repeatedly
Location:	Vsetín (Zlín Region)	Date:	16 June 2011
Source:	Romea.cz
Romani families living in a building on Pod Pecníkem street in Vsetín have been experiencing ongoing physical and verbal attacks. According to the Romani residents of the building, a group of assailants comprised of three or four young men have been harassing the Romani families repeatedly by kicking the apartment doors, shouting vulgar curses and destroying mailboxes. A Romani man living in the building said that the attacks have been going on for more than a month and take place at night. The owner of the building, Bohumil Slavík, claims that the night-time attacks are racially motivated. "Not only Romani people live in the building, 'white' families live there too, but when only the mailboxes with Romani names have been deliberately punctured, what else am I to believe?" he said. Although the victims called the police, the attackers always manage to run away. Vsetín Police Spokesperson Lenka Javorková confirmed that the police department is aware of the attacks and stated that an investigation is underway.

21. Four men charged for assaulting Romanians they mistook for Roma
Location:	Votice (Central Bohemian Region Region)	Date:	13 June 2011
Source:	Romea.cz
Police have charged four men from Votice with attacking Romanian workers because they believed they were members of the Romani community. In mid-May, the men allegedly shouted racist slogans at the workers before breaking into their building and brawling with them. Zuzana Stránská, spokesperson for the Benešov Police, said the four men face up to five years in prison if convicted. Stránská said the men first verbally assaulted the group of Romanians in the garden of the Domino Bar in Votice. They reportedly shouted at them, calling them "Gypsies" and chanted the Nazi greetings "Sieg Heil" and "Heil Hitler". The men displayed tattoos of Nazi symbols, performed the fascist salute and got drunk. After midnight the four men allegedly broke into the building where the Romanians were staying, entered the room where they were sleeping and punched one of them in the face. A brawl followed during which the Romanians tried to defend themselves with whatever was to hand, eventually succeeding in driving the attackers from the building. The men finally broke the glass in the street-level doors and fled. Stránská said that the men have been charged with breaking and entering, violence against a group and individuals, rioting and manifesting sympathy for a movement aimed at suppressing human rights and freedoms.

20. Police attack Roma while dispersing a religious gathering

Location:	Krupka (Ústí nad Labem Region)	Date:	9 April 2011
Source:	Romea.cz

While dispersing an open-air religious service attended by over 500 people, the majority of whom were Romani, police intervened against attendees including the clergyman leading the service with truncheons. At least one person sustained injuries to his head; video evidence against on the Internet shows police refusing to call an ambulance to assist this person. Police reportedly justified their intervention claiming that the participants of the religious service were blocking the route of a march organised by the far right Workers' Social Justice Party (Dělnická strana sociální spravedlnosti - DSSS) and supported by neo-Nazi groups Autonomous Nationalists (Autonomní nacionalisté - AN) and National Resistance (Národní odpor - NO). A total of seven persons were arrested for not following police orders.

19. Romani men attacked following neo-Nazi demonstration

Location:	Nový Bydžov (Hradec Králové Region)	Date:	13 March 2011
Source:	Romea.cz

A gang of 20 neo-Nazis attacked three Romani individuals in Nový Bydžov. One of the victims suffered head injuries and lost consciousness. He was transported to hospital, where it was determined he had suffered a concussion. Hradec Králové police spokesperson Ivana Ježková told the Czech Press Agency that police arrested the extremists involved.

The incident came immediately after a march of an estimated 500 sympathizers of the extreme-right Workers' Social Justice Party (Dělnická strana sociální spravedlnosti – DSSS) in the town. Police intervened brutally when about 200 counter-demonstrators attempted a non-violent blockade to prevent the march. According to witnesses, police officers on horseback charged at the peaceful demonstrators at full speed. Officers also brutally beat demonstrators with nightsticks and pulled girls by their hair.

18. Romani man and his son attacked on bus
Location:	Ostrava (Moravian-Silesian Region)	Date:	18 February 2011
Source:	Romea.cz
Unknown perpetrators attacked a Romani man travelling with his 13-year-old son on a city bus, first verbally then physically. Witnesses reported in the media that the perpetrators called the victims "Gypsies", forced the man off the bus and punched him several times. Police sources reported that the crime was committed by between four and six men between the ages of 20 and 25. The attack left the Romani man with injuries. Police officers reportedly documented large bloodstains at the crime scene.

Location:	Karviná (Moravian-Silesian Region)	Date:	29 March 2010
Source:	Romea.cz
On 29 March 2010 four perpetrators shot an air rifle at Roma in the town of Karviná, hitting a nine-year-old girl in the thigh, her mother in the arm and their ethnic Czech neighbour in the collarbone. The neighbour was reportedly not meant to be targeted but was hit accidentally when one of the shots missed the Romani woman. Jiina Solanov quoted the event as following: “My daughter was first shot in the leg, in her thigh to be precise. When I was talking with my neighbour outside, I felt the sting of another shot in my arm. I looked around and took two steps back – it was only because I moved that they didn’t get me a second time, but the gentleman with whom I was talking was hit. [...]” Neighbours confirmed the account. The victims called local police immediately after the incident and while the police were at the scene persons outside cursed the victims, calling them “black swine”. Ladislav Bal of the Europe Roma CZ association was quoted as having stated that about 150 Roma gathered after the attack to defend the area against the shooters; police reportedly ended up protecting the assailants from the crowd. This incident was the second in the area in a short period; earlier an unknown perpetrator reportedly threw a small gas bomb near children.

10. Molotov cocktail attack

Location: Ostrava (Moravian-Silesian Region)

Date:

14 March 2010

Source: Romea.cz

On the morning of 14 March 2010 a Molotov cocktail was thrown into the home of a Romani family in Ostrava's Bedřiška settlement. An unidentified perpetrator threw the Molotov cocktail through the window of a bedroom in which a 14-year-old girl was sleeping; the girl managed to put out the fire before anyone was injured. Police discovered the bottle contained ether indicating that the perpetrators may have intended those in the room to be rendered unconscious if the bottle did not catch fire immediately. The director of the Ostrava Police stated at a press conference the day after the attack that there was no reason to believe extremists were involved. A special 15-member team was investigating the attack as one of reckless endangerment. Police arrested the non-Romani neighbours of the family and charged two of them with the attempted murder.
